

Paley Rothman Fills Backpacks for NCCF Backpack Drive

For the second year in a row, Paley Rothman employees came together to donate school supplies and backpacks for the National Center for Children and Families Annual Backpack Drive.

Each summer, the National Center for Children and Families (NCCF) puts out a call for school supplies and donations for local children to start the school year off right. We are proud to once again answer that call with an abundance of school supplies and backpacks. Attorneys and staff donated notebooks, loose leaf paper, pens, pencils, crayons, and folders, among other items, to children in the D.C. metro area.

Founded in 1915 as an orphanage in the District of Columbia, NCCF is a private, nonprofit child and family welfare agency with a commitment to serving poor, disadvantaged, abused, neglected and/or abandoned children, youth, and their families.

Happy learning!
